ThyssenKrupp is a German industrial enterprise which has developed from a great deal of preceding companies. The most important event in its history was the fusion of the Thyssen AG with the Friedrich Krupp AG in 1999. Throughout history there have been impressive employer's personalities in both companies who also reflect significant aspects of German history.